WHAT IS THE CSEQ RESEARCH PROGRAM?
The CSEQ Research Program is home to the College Student Experiences Questionnaire (CSEQ) and the College Student Expectations Questionnaire (CSXQ). Together the CSEQ and CSXQ provide colleges and universities with information on student expectations and efforts toward the following areas:

◊ Library, Course Learning, Reading and Writing Experiences
◊ Student-Faculty and Peer Interactions
◊ Out of Classroom Experiences
◊ Perceptions of the Campus Environment
◊ Gains or Progress Made Toward Meaningful Learning Goals
◊ Reading and Writing
◊ Expectations of the Nature of the Campus Environment
The Student Advising Report (SAR) is an personalized display of CSEQ or CSXQ results. The SAR provides a student’s individual responses to the questionnaire alongside the average responses of their peers and a rating of how their efforts compare to their peers at a given institution.

Advisors and students review the individualized reports together and discuss what students can do to improve their educational experiences.

The design of the SAR can be adjusted to meet the needs of your school or program.

Contact the CSEQ Research Program for more details.

Benefits of the Student Advising Report

- Provides direct and personalized feedback to students
- Enriches the student/advisor relationship by helping guide meaningful conversations
- Allows early intervention with at risk students
- Identifies academic areas in which students’ preparation & activities differ from their peers
